Dear friend,

Nature has played a cruel biological joke on you.

Just consider this... your testosterone levels start to dip when you turn 21—and then plunge into a free fall when you hit 40. Your lady love, on the other hand, tends to become more sexually active and aggressive once her childbearing years have passed.

And that puts the two of you completely out of sync sexually.

So what do you do? You stand there awkwardly holding her purse while she tries on clothes at the mall instead of satisfying her with wild, passionate sex.

Not funny at all.

Well, it may help you feel better to know that you're not alone.

Newsweek magazine reported that 25 MILLION married couples have sex only 10 times a year or less. MILLIONS MORE have simply given sex up. Still more men and women feel angry, fearful, and powerless to improve their sex lives.

Welcome to Male Menopause

The official medical name for it is “andropause,” but whatever you call it, male menopause is no laughing matter.

Medical journals report that it's the time of life in men when they experience...

- Sexual problems
- Disturbed sleep
- Mood swings
- Heart problems
- Prostate concerns
